About Billy James Hargis

Billy James Hargis was born on August 3, 1925, in Texarkana, Texas, and adopted by Jimmie Earsel Hargis and Laura Lucille Hargis. He graduated from Texarkana High School and briefly attended Ozark Bible College in Bentonville, Arkansas, before dropping out to become a preacher. Ordained as a minister by the Disciples of Christ denomination while still a teenager, he later received a degree in theology from Burton College and Seminary in Colorado Springs, Colorado. He served as pastor to churches in Sallisaw, Oklahoma, and Granby, Missouri, before becoming pastor of First Christian Church in Sapulpa, Oklahoma, in 1948. In Sapulpa he began editing the Chris ian Echoes magazine and founded the Christian Echoes Hour radio. In November 1950 he resigned his position with First Christian Church to establish a national ministry, the Christian Crusade Against Communism. In 1951 he married Betty Jane Secrest; together they had four children.

Hargis became affiliated with Carl McIntire of Collingswood, New Jersey, the leader of the fundamentalist International Council of Christian Churches. From 1953 to 1958 Hargis directed that organization's Bibles by Balloons Project, which launched scriptures tied to balloons in West Germany across the border into communist countries. Afterwards he returned to Oklahoma, choosing Tulsa as his ministry's headquarters. By the early 1960s he produced programs that regularly ran on 250 television and 500 radio stations. In 1966 he founded the David Livingstone Missionary Foundation, which ran medical clinics and orphanages in Asia and Africa. In 1971 he founded American Christian College in Tulsa. During his career he authored more than 100 books, as well as countless articles for the Chris ian Crusade Weekly newspaper.

An ultraconservative minister, Hargis's career was plagued with controversy. In addition to his anti-communist views, he was a supporter of racial segregation, and reputedly held anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic views. In the early 1960s the Internal Revenue Service determined that his work was political in nature and stripped his organization of its tax exempt status. Then comments Hargis made in 1964 caused an opposing journalist to demand equal time; denied this, the journalist filed suit, leading to the Supreme Court case Red Lion Broadcas ing Co. v. FCC (1969) which affirmed the Fairness Doctrine. In 1968 Hargis launched an attack on sex education programs, only to be accused in 1974 of having sexual relations with both male and female students at his college. This controversy resulted in his writing an autobiography, My Great Mis ake, published in 1985; he denied the allegations. The controversies, along with poor health and the effects of aging, eventually caused the decline of his ministry. Suffering from Alzheimer's Disease and following a series of heart attacks, Hargis died in Tulsa on November 27, 2004.

About the Collection

The collection includes materials on a wide range of subjects with an emphasis on the menace of communism, both foreign and domestic. The research and correspondence files of Allen Zoll and the New York-based National Council for American Education (NCAE) constitute a large portion of the Hargis Papers. The NCAE was an anti-communist watchdog organization active during the 1940s and 1950s. It compiled numerous files on alleged "Reds" in educational institutions, agitating for their dismissal from academic positions. In 1961 Zoll sold his files to Hargis, who used the NCAE files as the foundation for the Christian Crusade's research files, which span the period ca. 1960-1980. Related materials acquired by Special Collections from the University of Michigan have been integrated into the collection.

The collection includes a large section on subjects such as the House Un-American Activities Committee, Joseph McCarthy, and related topics such as communism in American education. The collection includes materials related to the battle between fundamentalist and liberal churches, especially Carl McIntire's campaign against ecumenicalism as represented by the National Council of Churches. Also included are materials pertaining to the upheavals of the 1960s, featuring materials on desegregation, the cultural revolution, and materials from radical student and black nationalist groups. The collection includes numerous materials on Rhodesia, South Africa, and the anti-apartheid movement in the 1970s. The collection includes an excellent collection of newspapers, with titles representing a diverse selection of groups. Right wing newspapers represent divergent groups featuring anti-labor, patriotic, fundamentalist Christian, neo-Nazi, and white supremacist viewpoints. Similarly, left wing newspapers include titles with ecumenical, anti-war, pro-labor, socialist, communist, radical student, and black nationalist viewpoints. Finally, materials include video and audio recordings of programs by Hargis.

Materials include correspondence, monographs, pamphlets, flyers, posters, newspapers, clippings, and other papers. The collection includes both video and audio tapes. The collection includes few photographs. Nine Billy James Hargis scrapbooks have been microfilmed and the originals returned to the donor.

BILLY JAMES HARGIS PAPERS (MC 1412)

Series I

Billy James Hargis and the Christian Crusade

Boxes 1-5

This series includes materials pertaining to Billy James Hargis and the Christian Crusade. Included are biographical materials, including obituaries, newspaper clippings, and monographs by Hargis and Fernando Penabaz. This series also includes materials gathered by the FBI on Hargis and the Christian Crusade, available through the Freedom of Information Act; the fourth of these ten files could not be obtained. Other materials include scripts from Hargis's radio show, and many of his writings. This series also includes materials pertaining to staff and associates of the Christian Crusade, including correspondence, writings, and newspaper clippings. Of particular note are the materials pertaining to General Edwin Walker, who resigned his commission in the United States Army and joined Hargis in the crusade against communism. After 1969 the Christian Crusade's newspaper The Weekly Crusader was superseded by the large format newspaper Christian Crusade Weekly, issues of which are located in Series 4.

Series II

Domestic Policy and Issues

Boxes 6-82

This series includes topics related to domestic policy, including government and politics; liberal and left wing materials; conservative and right wing materials; materials related to education; materials related to social issues; and materials related to religion. A final group of “Miscellaneous Materials” includes items that do not readily fall into one of the preceding categories.

Subseries 1. Government and Politics.

First in this subseries are materials pertaining to presidents and presidential administrations, arranged chronologically by presidential term. Following these materials are sections on the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution; the United States Congress; and political parties. Afterwards is a section on politicians, which is arranged alphabetically by state, with information on a selected politician found under his home state. Information on several failed presidential candidates, including Wendell Wilkie, Thomas Dewey, Barry Goldwater, George Wallace, and George McGovern, may be found in this section. Following materials on politicians are sections on the United States Supreme Court; government agencies; and miscellaneous political topics.

Subseries 2. Liberal and Left Wing Materials

This subseries includes “left wing” materials defined broadly. Subjects generally feature individuals and organizations accused of being communist, or having communist sympathies. The first section contains information on communism, liberalism, and socialism. The second section features aliens and immigration. Next is a section on the House Un-American Activities Committee, Joseph McCarthy, and the sedition trials of the 1940s and 1950s. Following these are sections on alleged “Reds,” and liberal and left wing organizations and publications. Afterwards are sections on the labor movement; the entertainment industry; artists, poets, and writers; and radio and television. A section on print journalists includes both liberal/left wing and conservative/right wing journalists.

BILLY JAMES HARGIS PAPERS (MC 1412)

Series II

Domestic Policy and Issues

Boxes 6-82

This series includes topics related to domestic policy, including government and politics; liberal and left wing materials; conservative and right wing materials; materials related to education; materials related to social issues; and materials related to religion. A final group of “Miscellaneous Materials” includes items that do not readily fall into one of the preceding categories.

Subseries 3. Conservative and Right Wing Materials

This subseries includes “conservative” materials broadly defined. The first section of materials are related to Allen A. Zoll and the National Council for American Education. The second section includes conservative individuals and organizations, concluding with materials related to extreme far right groups such as the Ku Klux Klan and neo-Nazis. The third section focuses on business and the economy. The final section features materials related to the taxpayers’ revolt.

Series II

Domestic Policy and Issues

Boxes 6-82

This series includes topics related to domestic policy, including government and politics; liberal and leftwing materials; conservative and right wing materials; materials related to education; materials related to social issues; and materials related to religion. A final group of “Miscellaneous Materials” includes items that do not readily fall into one of the preceding categories.

Subseries 5. Social Issues

The first section of this subseries focuses on race, and includes materials related to African Americans, the civil rights movement, and Hispanics; also included are materials on racist organizations. The second section focuses on women’s issues and organizations. The third section includes materials on families and the changing sexual morality of the 1960s and 1970s. This is followed by sections on the 1960s counterculture; drug and alcohol abuse; crime and law enforcement; and health care. The final section includes materials on poverty. The terms “Racial Balance” and “Racial Agitation” were used by the Christian Crusade to file materials related to racial quotas, busing, and the activities of supporters of the civil rights movement; they are retained below and designated by quotation marks.

Box 119

1. Chrisian Crusade /Chrisian Crusade Newspaper, 1989-1999 (scattered issues).

Subseries 2. Other Newspapers

Newspapers in this subseries are divided into two groups by size. The first group includes small format newspapers measuring approximately 18 x 12 inches; the second group consists of larger newspapers. These materials are arranged alphabetically by newspaper title. Most runs of newspapers have missing issues; the designation "scattered issues" indicates significant gaps in the collection's holdings of that paper.

Series V

Audio and Video Tapes

Boxes 178-183

Except for a vinyl record remembering the North Korean attack on the U.S.S. Pueblo in January 1968, all of these materials document either Christian Crusade radio or television programs. This series is divided into three groups of materials. The first group consists of audio cassette tapes, VHS tapes, and the vinyl record; the VHS tapes date from 1992 to 1994. The second group consists of video tapes of programs for the period 1971 to 1986. The third group consists of reel-to-reel films and dates from 1965 to 1981.
